14 Doncaster Ct, Trevallyn

Unique Home with Development Potential

An impressive offering in the current market this unique property is almost completely hidden behind thick foliage, reminiscent of a private bush block opposed to a suburban street in Trevallyn.

There is an interesting floorplan on offer here as it allows occupants a flexible living arrangement, along with space and privacy to relax. The front door opens into a spacious entry foyer with parquetry floor and leads off, left and right, to separate wings. There are two double bedrooms and a bathroom (one incorporating the laundry) at each end of the house, as well as an independent living zone.

The right-hand end of the house is naturally light and bright and combines an open plan kitchen and living area. The high timber ceilings and green leafy outlook in this space gives a sense of calm and it feels like a bushland getaway. The left-hand section of the house includes a comfortable lounge room with the ambience of a wood heater and a warm, bohemian vibe.

West Tamar Council have indicated that due to the substantial land size of 1121m2, this property could possibly be further developed. Either consider a cleverly designed extension to the existing house or split the block and build an energy efficient strata unit amongst the trees (STCA).
